

Why can't we just get out of the way and let consumers decide what to consume?